GET BUSY FOR
GOOD ROADS

The Beattyville Enterprise last week contained a short editorial urging the mountain people to study the question of the good road bond issue
so that they can understand what it would mean to the poorer counties of eastern Kentucky. The Enterprise thinks that with good roads to help, the mountain counties would soon emerge from the pauper class and be self sustaining without depending on the richer counties of the Blue Grass for any help whatever.
The editorial follows:

"Now that the Legislature has passed the bill submitting the $75-000,000 bond issue to the voters at every mother's son of us go to work in earnest and see to it that a large vote is polled favoring the issuance of the bonds.

"There will, of course, be more or less opposition to the question by those who are not informed and by those who won't be informed from a purely selfish standpoint.

"If there is a rational human being living in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky who has the gall to stand in his own light, and vote against this bond issue, we do not know what ought to be done with him—well, he is to be pitied—for he certainly does not know what he is doing.

"There is a certain element in the Blue Grass and, as we understand, in the Western portion of the state against the bond issue. This is because they do not know what is good for them. They have not considered that with good roads throughout the mountains of eastern Kentucky, the development that will be brought about in this section will be so great that the enhancement in the valuation of taxable property will be beyond conception, and that instead of many of the mountain counties being in the pauper list they will be large revenue producers. Is it possible that the people of the 'Settlements' can't see this?

"We hope as time goes on they may take an 'eye-opener' or two so that they may get a vision of real progress.

OPEN PROHIBITION
VIOLATION HERE

Three men were shot, two fatally, in this immediate vicinity Sunday. In all three instances, we understand, liquor was directly responsible for the tragedy. Nor is this unusual, for the pages of every newspaper are full of such occurrences, and practically every week brings its quota here.

Evidently enforcement of the prohibition law is lax in those parts where such violations occur. The large number of cases of drunkenness in police court yesterday makes us think Mid-dlesboro and vicinity has entirely too much bootleg liquor in circulation.

With as many officers of the law as Bell county and Middlesboro has—if they are the right kind of officers, we cannot understand why they are unable to curb, at least, the amount of liquor sold.

Just as in all sections there is some lawlessness always so, until this generation is past, there will probably be some violation of the prohibition law.
But there is no necessity of the wholesale violation and the big amount of bootlegging that goes on here and we know there isn't.

It is a problem for every citizen who regards the safety of himself and others to consider. It is particularly a problem for every parent to study.
There is, without doubt, an organized system of bootlegging in this section,
and there are more than a few people who have well-grounded suspicions concerning its nucleus and its officials.

And this condition will go on as long as our good citizens do not concern themselves enough to protest against it, so that no these citizens have actually organized as a part of the

TUESDAY
God's Love Seeking Men

Read Mt. 18:7-14. Text: 18:12. How think ye? If any man have a hundred sheep, and one of them be gone astray, doth he not leave the ninety
and nine, and go unto the mountains,
and seek that which goeth astray?

"What could a man do to God
which would in any sense hurt God and for which a man ought to apologize to God? The wrong done springs out of the character of God and the nearness of God to the life of man. God is close to the life of a man, always saying, 'I want you. I want you.'"

MEDITATION: The wooing power of the love of God has lifted men from lower stages of selfishness and self-indulgence to higher planes;
wherein some apprehend, though dimly perhaps, the workings of his will in the lives of his children. God's love yet seeks to win our lives more fully and through us to win the millions who know him not.

PERSONAL QUESTION: Am I
grieved when another goes astray?
PRAYER: We pray thee, Almighty God, that thy grace may rest upon our spirits. May we feel the impress of thy love upon our lives.
Let thy love enlighten our path as stars in the night. Abide thou with us, in Christ's name. Amen.

general scheme of things that they have become lethargic. Is there no way they can be awakened to the dangers which are so threatening?

"HOME, SWEET HOME" IS FIRST

Since community singing is one of the most popular activities of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, that organization attempted during the past year,
through popular referendum to learn what are the favorite American songs. A list of twenty was submitted by the committee on people's songs, community service, through newspaper agencies. The public was not only to express its preference among the twenty songs listed, but to add others of its own choosing.

The result of this competition,
which has just been announced, indicates the following as the public's favorites, listed in the order of the number of votes received: "Home,
Sweet Home," "America," "Star
Spangled Banner," "Carry Me Back To Old Virginia," "Old Folks At Home," "America, the Beautiful,"
"Dixie," "Juanita," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Smiles," "Columbia,
the Gem of the Ocean," "There's a Long, Long Trail," "Old Black Joe,"
"Mother Machree," "My Bonnie,"
"Till We Meet Again," "When You
and I Were Young, Maggie," "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "Just Break the News To Mother," and
"Just Before the Battle, Mother."

Four of these songs, "When You
and I Were Young, Maggie," "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "Just Break the News To Mother," and
"Just Before the Battle, Mother,"
were not on the original list, which was compiled from the votes of community song leaders and of the musicians and social workers who make up the membership of the committee. The fact is brought out that on the original list "Home, Sweet Home" was not placed first, as it is less used than is "Old Folks At Home" in community singing, but evidently the people love the song, nevertheless, and placed it on their list.

THIS world is simply wild about reducing, so it seems, and calories have come into their own. Through exercises I'll fade away; the hefty person dreams and, too, I'll let the fat foods alone.
When early in the morning I rise, I'll have my daily roll until my very sides are tired and sore. Of course I am depending that my fat will pay the toll, for it's not a breakfast roll, but for the floor.
I'll put my auto top up on facks and throw the key away. 'Twill make me move by foot where ever I go. I'll not thrash off tomorrow what can be thrown off today for 'twould tend to make reducing rather slow.
The balance of the family can partake of what they choose. But me?
I'll have a meal all of my own, shy of fats and carbohydrates. While they gain I'll slowly lose, though I fight reducing a battle all alone.
'Tis the dream of hefty-people, just a dream that fades and dies. For

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton
NO. 23—THE TWINS MAKE A VISIT.

With that she picked up a Twin in each hand.

"And now," said the Beantalk king kindly to the Twins, "how can we reward you for finding our lost treasure? We had only enough money left to keep us for 10 days, but now we will live in peace and comfort all the rest of our lives."

"I know what I should like, thank you," said Nick quickly. "I'd like to see the house where Jack's giant lived."
"So, should I," cried Nancy. "And his wife, and the oven where she hid Jack, and the chair the giant sat in,
and the table he pointed on, and the door he came through when he said
'Po, fo, fo, fo!'"

"Your wish shall be granted," declared the Beantalk king. "The cat shall take you there. Come, Dandy, and remember, no drains this time, or you shall do without your herring for a week!"

Dandy promised to be good, and lay down while the Twins crawled up on his silky soft back; then calling loudly to their friends the three started down the road to the giant's house.

Mrs. Giant was out feeding her garden when she beheld the Twins riding in at the gate.

"Lands sake us!" cried she. "There are two more of those children! Exactly the size of the little boy who came to Beantalk Land and stole my husband's harp and magic hen, and then cut down the Beantalk! How do you do?" she said politely as the Twins came near.

"Very well, thank you!" cried Nancy and Nick sliding down of Dandy's back. "Are you the giant's wife?"

Mrs. Giant laughed. "Which giant?"
she asked. "Beantalk Land is nothing but giants and most of them have been killed."

"We mean the giant who said that he smelled blood of an Englishman," explained Nick.

"Yes, I am that person," said Mrs.
Giant. "What can I do for you?"
"We came to see you," said Nancy.
"We have to go home soon and we thought we would stop for a few minutes before we left."

"That was very kind," said Mrs.
Giant. "I'll come in and I'll show you around. And as for you, Mister Cat, you'll find a bed of catnip in the garden. Help yourself."

With that she picked up a Twin in each hand and started into the house.
"This is the very door that Jack knocked on when he arrived in Bean-stalk Land," she said. "And there is the oven I hid him in." And with that she showed them everything in the famous house.

"And now I'll show you the chicken-coop where we kept the hen that laid the golden eggs, also the place where the top of the Beantalk was."

But when they got there, the giant's wife cried out, "Why, here is the very Beantalk again! I thought that Jack had cut it down."

But the Twins explained that it was their very own Beantalk and not Jack's at all.

"We must be going now," said Nancy. "Thank you for being so kind. And say goodby to Dandy, please."

"Goodby," said Mrs. Giant, setting them gently on the ground.

A COMPARISON

Often I walk beside little streams
And the thought comes
How like life is to these waters
Unrippled by even the smallest
And some finding strange places
And paths
And coming out clear and cool
And sweet—
But some, alas:
Seeking and finding the darkness
Stagnant places
And lying foul and murky and Loathsome to the eye.
Its only hope of cleansing the wild,
Torrential storm
Just as the sin-burdened is often swept
By some deep and heartfelt sorrow
into a nobler, more beautiful existence.

Meeting Last Night
The Parent-Teachers' Association had an excellent attendance and enjoyable program last night. Miss Rogers' drill work and Miss Weiber's class performance both won praise and Miss Hester Edwards' talk on Thrift was particularly interesting. Because Superintendent Bradner was absent the pictures could not be assigned to the rooms with the greatest number of patrons in attendance.

Entertains Last Night

With St. Patrick's Party
Miss Cary Rosenfield entertained last night with a St. Patrick's party at her home in the McKay apartments. The favorite green of St. Patrick was carried out in the decorations and refreshments. Small shamrocks were favors. Guests were: Misses Jess and Earle Buchanan, Miriam Williams, Rosetta Wood, Mildred Kerr and Gay Hoback, and Miss Cloy Carter of Harlan, Marion Douglas, George Callison and Jim Ginsburg of Middlesboro, Headley Card, A. E. Heidenrich and F. C. Parsons of Pineville, and Albert Shoemaker and Fred Bowling of Harlan.

Miss Margaret Brim

Celebrates Birthday
Miss Margaret Brim celebrated her twenty-fifth birthday last Friday with a party at her home in Newtown. The house was beautifully decorated in lavender and white and on the birthday cake were lavender candles. A delicious supper was served after which games and music were enjoyed. Martha Hains and Roscoe Bryant won prizes. Harry Bass furnished music. Those present were: Finley Turner, Harry Bass, John Mason, Roscoe Bryant, Claude Turner and Arty Robert Bass, Mae Southern, Lena Reynolds, Emma Turner, Lillie Bass, Martha Hains, Bessie Bryant and Margaret Brim.

Miss Laura Hart

DAILY MENU FOR THE STOUT AND THIN

Lose Weight
Juice 1 lemon, 1 cup spinach, 1 hard boiled egg, 4 ounces fillet of sole, 2 tablespoons cauliflower with 1-2 cup tomato puree and 1 teaspoon grated cheese, 6 radishes, 1-2 head lettuce, 1 cup fruit salad, 1 shredded wheat biscuit, 1 slice gluten bread, 1 gluten roll, 1 pint skimmed milk.
Total calories, 1016. Protein, 182; fat, 214; carbohydrate, 620. Iron, .0199 gram.
The cauliflower is boiled and then put in ramikins with the tomato and cheese.
The woman who must cook for her family individually, so to speak, will find ramikins a great convenience. Any device for individual service makes it possible to suit each member of the family. Individual salads and desserts allow dressings and sauces and changes in the ingredients themselves to suit each diet.
The spinach salad is made of cooked, finely chopped spinach molded in gelatin and garnished with hard boiled egg. Serve on a bed of lettuce with lemon juice, salt and pepper but no oil.
Gain Weight
Juice 1 lemon, 1 cup cream of potato soup with 1 tablespoon grated cheese, 1 cup spinach salad, 1 hard boiled egg, 1 cup cream of mushroom soup, 4 ounces fillet of sole, 2 tablespoons tartar sauce, 2 candied sweet potatoes, 2 tablespoons cauliflower with 1-2 cup tomato puree and 1 tablespoon buttered crumbs with 1 teaspoon grated cheese, 6 radishes, 1-2 head lettuce, 1 cup fruit salad, 2 tablespoons whipped cream and salad dressing, 2 tablespoons oil mayonnaise, 1 shredded wheat biscuit, 1 banana, 2 tablespoons corned beef hash, 1-4 cup table cream, 2 2-inch squares corn bread, 3 tablespoons maple syrup, 2 pieces buttered toast, 2 slices whole wheat bread, 3 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons cream of rice pudding, 2 tablespoons date pudding, 2 tablespoons whipped cream, 1 pint whole milk.
Total calories, 3496. Protein, 368; fat, 1214; carbohydrate, 1914. Iron, .0189 gram.
For this menu the spinach salad is served with oil mayonnaise.
The banana is suggested for the shredded wheat biscuit.
Tea and coffee are not suggested in these menus but may be included, if desired. However, the tea should be weak and so should the coffee.
The milk is imperative. Hot water the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night is well worth drinking if you are inclined to be indolent.

FORK RIDGE SCHOOL CLOSSES WITH PROGRAM SATURDAY

The public school at Fork Ridge taught by C. C. Smith came to a close Saturday with an entertainment attended by about 250 persons. The program consisted of songs, speeches, recitations, dialogues and instrumental music. A good time was generally enjoyed and the pupils acquitted themselves well in the entertainment program.

At the conclusion of the program a treat was given the children by the teacher. Thurman Itaney who lives in the camp and who bears a gold medal awarded by the United States army for skill in cooking, prepared a delicious dinner for the guests who enjoyed the hospitality very much.

Better Homes Aim of Nation-Wide Drive Headed by Prominent Women; Ownership for Wage-Earners Urged

To promote better homes throughout the United States for families of small incomes that must make both ends meet is one of the outstanding aims of the Better Homes in America, recently incorporated as a national educational institution, with Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, as president, and James Ford, national housing specialist, as executive director.

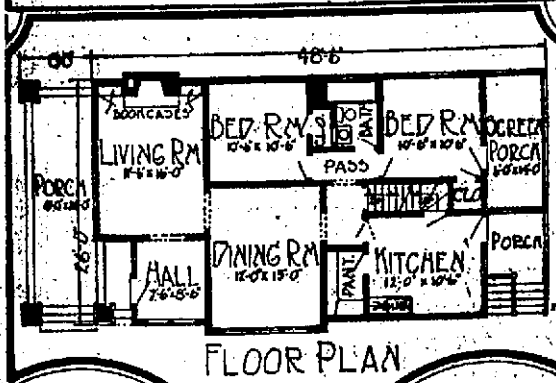

Associated with the organization is its effort to make attractive homes available for wage-earners and for families of rural sections, as well as for those of cities and towns, are some of the best-known women of the United States. Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the new Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was recently appointed a member of the advisory council of Better Homes in America. Miss Lida Hafford, Director of Headquarters of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, has given notable service as a member of the advisory council since the inception of the Better Homes in America movement. Mrs. W. C. Martin, Chairman of the Women's Division of the Federation of Farm and Home Bureau, and Mrs. Charles Schuttler, former chairman, both members of the advisory council of Better Homes in America, are particularly interested in the improvement of rural homes.

May 11-18 has been set aside as Better Homes week, and in these seven days hundreds of communities in every part of the nation will carry on Better Homes demonstrations, as a vivid means of educating the public in methods of home betterment. Demonstration houses this year will feature such homes as are available for families of modest means. Better kitchen contests, home beautification contests, demonstrations of labor-saving household equipment, and exhibitions of home libraries, home play and home music, are mentioned as possible features for demonstrations in rural sections. Another possibility for farm communities is the progressive demonstration, in which several homes of the community will combine as demonstration houses, each of them showing one salient feature essential in an attractive and well-equipped rural home.

President Coolidge, who heads the advisory council of Better Homes in America, recently issued an endorsement of the movement, urging participation in the Better Homes demonstrations upon communities throughout the United States.

"We need attractive, worthy, permanent homes that lighten the burden of housekeeping," declared President Coolidge. "We need homes in which home life can reach its finest levels, and in which can be reared happy children and upright citizens."

Well-Planned Bungalow

(Copyright, American Builder Magazine, Chicago)

Here is one of the few types of bungalow that can be built on a narrow lot. At the same time it gives the maximum of room, convenience and light. The exterior is of grayish brown stucco, relieved by white trim. A roomy porch leads into the hall and thence into the living room. The screen porch in back may be used as an auxiliary bedroom, especially for the baby. The bedrooms are reached through the door off the kitchen and are grouped together at one end. The whole house is 24 feet wide and 34 feet 6 inches in depth.

BUSINESS ON UPGRADE, SAY RAIL HEADS

WILLIAM H. FINLEY

W. B. STOREY

CHICAGO, Mar. 18.—Now that 1924 has got well started around the track, what sort of year for business is it proving to be?

The question was put up to the heads of transcontinental railroads, who, should know, if anyone does, just what and where and how much the people of the nation are buying and selling and carrying on trade.

"Business moves in broad curves rather than by jumps and jerks; and now it is on the upward slope," answers President William H. Finley of the Chicago & Northwestern.

"The year 1923 established a new record for the railroads, and it does not now seem that this record should be regarded as extraordinary or unlikely to be matched," says

YOUR GARDEN

Your garden should not be without flowers after sufficient allowance has been made.

You can plant them either in formal patterns in the yard or as a decorative bordering in the vegetable plot.

Full-blossom plants which grow to considerable height serve as attractive screens for fences, objectionable views and other obtrusive objects. They may also be arranged against buildings.

Castor-leaves, sorghums and sunflowers are included for this purpose. For the rented dwelling, annual plants may be cheaply grown in substitution for expensive shrubbery.

However, it must be borne in mind that the first killing frost will obliterate whatever landscape effect they produce. Hence they should be sown as early as possible to gain the longest lasting bloom.

Soil for annuals should be well supplied with every possible plant food. It should be well drained and of such character to permit retention of reasonably large quantities of moisture.

Possibly the best average soil for most of these plants can be prepared from a light, rich loam well mixed

President W. B. Storey of the Santa Fe.

And the eastern roads, reporting to the Middle Atlantic States Regional Advisory Board, estimate that shipments of most commodities in their territory this year will exceed those of 1923 by more than 10 per cent.

That figure is given for such commodities as lumber, petroleum, cement, automobiles, shoes, silk, cotton and copper. For confectionery and chocolate the increase is predicted to be 25 per cent. Shipments, of course, mean work for factories, money flowing through the banks and enjoyment by the consumers.

Farmer Worries

Prosperity and good times have come to tarry a while. "I am much more optimistic than I was last fall," declares President Finley. "I believe business will be better than it has been since the railroads were returned to private control."

"The one fly in the ointment is the predicament of the farmer. I do not see any great relief for him immediately. Artificial remedies such as a price-fixing by law will not solve the problem."

"If you ask me what is the greatest danger to the country, I'd say it is in people living beyond their incomes. That means dishonest living. But in spite of adverse factors, in spite of the retarding effect of a presidential election, I expect business to continue good."

Just as a matter of figures, to support what the officials are saying, the car service division of the American Railway Association reports that for the first seven weeks this year, the loading of revenue freight was 6,133,670, while for the same period last year it was 5,905,377. In 1922 it was a million cars less.

aimed, is almost essential to successful growing of flowers in your garden.

Before any of these materials are employed, however, the ground should be reasonably good as to texture to start with and the fertilizer should be thoroughly worked into the soil.

Drainage is another important factor to consider. Flowers need plenty of water, but not too much.

To prevent gathering of excess moisture dig your flower bed to a depth of three feet and on the bottom place a layer of crushed stone covered by inverted sods. Over this foundation place your soil.

The drainage layer thus prepared should be equipped with some sort of suitable outlet. A stone drain may be used for the purpose. But it is better to have the outlet run to a sewer or adjoining ditch.

Seeds for flowers may be sown broadcast or in rows. But the inexperienced gardener had best plant them in rows.

This applies especially for slow germinating seeds liable to be mistaken for weeds and pulled up.

Flower seeds grow best in soil, but not in light, rather than excessive moisture. The soil should be mellow and protected from drying winds.

The beginner will probably obtain best results by starting his flowers in window boxes, and beds or cold frames.

Construction of these devices has been explained in a foregoing chapter.

Their use when properly employed will hasten the period of bloom by at least two weeks.

Tomorrow: More flower facts.

How Elusive Water

LORAIN, O., March 18.—The country side hereabouts is worked up over a big wolf hunt that has been undertaken by farmers. No one will swear he has seen the wolf or wolves, but reports of slain sheep and other livestock caused the farmers to spread a dragnet. They had their trouble for their pains. So far the only animals encountered have been rabbits and the season for them is over.

Pee Gee VELKOATT

Charming Kitchen and Bathroom Walls

THERE are two spots in the home that, above all others, call for special paint treatment. In bathroom and kitchen the sanitary standard must be high.

To assure the housewife an economical and satisfactory means for attaining in bathroom and kitchen a charming decorative scheme, while meeting every sanitary requirement, Pee Gee Velkoatt was prepared. Its hard surface, producing the effect of a satin finish enamel, resists the wear and abuse to which bathroom and kitchen are constantly exposed. It is washable and durable.

Let us show you its wonderful possibilities.

ROSE HILL NOTES

Mrs. J. S. Anderson made a business trip to Middlesboro Saturday.

School was dismissed Friday because of the death of Prof. Jennings' brother. The following attended the funeral, which was held in Jonesville Friday: Henry Smith, Elizabeth and Baby Nell Smith, Omer Smith and Mrs. Belle Tyler.

The Rose Hill faculty was entertained at a supper by the Ewing faculty at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Kippard Friday night.

Joseph H. Hobbs has been appointed local justice of peace.

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. N. Anderson, who have lived near here for 49 years, are leaving to live with their children in Johnson City. Mrs. Anderson will first visit her son, Fain, in Harlan.

The Rev. J. A. Hoskins has returned to his home in Eastern Virginia for a time.

Mrs. E. J. Crouse of Bentonville, Ark., is visiting her father, and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Keys.

J. C. Lenart left this week with his new bus to establish a schedule between Rose Hill and Middlesboro, and then to a route near Knoxville.

Voted Prettiest

Louise Johnson of Fairmont, W. Va., 18-year-old sophomore, has been voted the most beautiful student at West Virginia University. And only a couple months ago she was declared the prettiest girl in her home town.

HOW TO BE ALERT AT 90; DR. ELIOT ADVISES MODERATION, FRESH AIR

CAMBRIDGE, Mar. 18.—A prescription for health and mental alertness at 90.

"Eat moderately, sleep at least seven hours a night with windows open, take regular exercise in the open air, use no stimulants, enjoy all natural delights without excess in any, and keep under all circumstances a serene spirit as possible."

It was Dr. Charles W. Eliot's answer to the world's question: What is your secret?

He will be 90 years old March 20.

Mr. Eliot's experience does not furnish a short, explicit prescription for keeping health and working power, probably because many and various causes have contributed to the result, he says.

"That I have borne much labor and responsibility without suffering even temporary breakdowns, seems to be due—after the inheritance of a sound constitution—to my possession of a good muscular and nervous system, prescribed by open air exercise and the habit of moderate eating."

At 70 he has contributed to the fortunate result that at no time of my life have I ever made use of heavy stimulants like tea, coffee, tobacco or alcohol, although I have never been a total abstainer from any of these stimulants except coffee. When I have taken them it has always been in dilute form.

He is a firm believer in the good effects of change of one's environment during his life. He has always spent winter vacations in the country, and his earlier days at the sea in a sloop along the New England coast.

"It gave me a strong and wholesome change of air," Dr. Eliot explains, "and also of mental occupation for I went as skipper and pilot."

Another important factor in his life has been his ability to sleep.

"I could spend long evenings in stilling debates and go to sleep on getting home. I could write efficiently on an interesting subject until 11 o'clock and be asleep the moment I got into bed," he asserts.

Moderation came to him naturally, according to his own words, and was not the result of a peculiar wisdom or lively sense of duty.

The famous educator is also aware of two mental and moral conditions which have contributed to his safe endurance of physical and mental strains. They are: calm temperament and ability to defeat anticipation of disappointment and vain regrets.

"He who desires calm temperament should be provided with strong muscles and obedient nerves," Dr. Eliot observes.

And he emphasizes his belief that spiritual influences of love and good will "cannot be excluded from a life if it is to be one of real joy and satisfaction."

Few men at 90 are able to live the pace of Dr. Eliot.

He is as active as a man of 60, although he has recently undertaken to guard his physical strength, living somewhat of a secluded life. Close associates assert that he is intellectually alert today as he was 15 years ago when he retired from the post as head of Harvard.

Perhaps, the outstanding thing about his intellectual interests is that he looks forward, never backward. He is interested in tomorrow, not yesterday. The future of humanity holds his attention, never its past.

He has absolute faith in democracy, firmly believing that education and religion are the fundamentals of democracy.

ROAD CONDITIONS IN THIS SECTION

Corbin-Delaware Still Almost Impossible—Best In Fair Shape

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Mar. 18.—Road conditions in Kentucky for the week ending March 15 announced by the Department of State, Roads and Highways are as follows:

Eastern Dixie Highway
Southbound traffic from Cincinnati should cross the river at Newport, then go by way of Alexandria, Grant's Lick, Butler, Greenwood, Falmouth, Cynthiana, and Park to Lexington.

The I-11 road south of Covington between Independence and Pendleton County line is under construction. There are several detours and a difficult ford to cross. For safe and certain going take the Alexandria route just described.

The Dixie Highway south of Covington is under construction. Local traffic through Florence and Williamstown should detour at Walton and Dry Ridge.

Rockcastle County.—In traveling from Mt. Vernon to Livingston keep the main road. Last mile north of Livingston new earth grade which at present is in fair condition so that traffic is going through. Difficult going may be expected after rains. From Livingston to Rockcastle River travel surface in good condition.

Laurel County.—The earth grade just south of Rockcastle River is in fair condition at present. Traffic going through with ease in dry weather. The waterbound macadam section joining this on the south is in excellent condition.

Whitley County.—Macadam road from Corbin to Williamsburg is in excellent condition. From Williamsburg to Jellico, the graded earth road is passable in dry weather. Traffic going through at present.

Knox County.—Tennessee traffic can go by way of Barbourville and Pineville to Cumberland Gap. Grade and drain construction under way between Corbin and Barbourville. Detour via Woodbine and Dishman springs almost impassable. Traffic is still going through with the aid of and Middlesboro to Cumberland Gap is in good to excellent condition.

ERNST CERTAIN COOLIDGE WILL BE REELECTED

Kentucky Senator Says All Sections Favor President DEMOCRAT SUPPORT

People Admire His Courage and Cool- idge's Will Draw Voters From Farm and City

WASHINGTON, D. C. Mar. 18.—Senator Richard P. Ernst of Kentucky, the first United States Senator to come out for Calvin Coolidge, which he did the first Monday following the funeral of the late President Harding, in an exclusive interview today stated that he was confident that Calvin Coolidge would not only be re-nominated at Cleveland but would also be elected in November. In discussing the matter Senator Ernst said:

"Delegates have now been selected to the Republican National convention at Cleveland, but because of the lack of any contest little prominence has been given to the result. In no case has there been any real opposition to President Coolidge, and it is significant that the result has been the same in Southern states, like Virginia and Kentucky, states in the Middle West, like Iowa and Kansas, and in Colorado. In the Rocky mountain region everywhere the sentiment is unanimous for the nomination of the President, and his opponents have yet to secure a single pledged delegate. When one considers the number of favorite sons who have succeeded in securing at least a portion of the delegates from their own state in past years, this endorsement becomes doubly significant."

HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, Mar. 18.—The great golden piano in the East Room of the White House never poured forth more golden tones than it did the other day when Mrs. Coolidge was hostess at the first of a series of Lenten musicales she is giving for official and social Washington.

The artist was none other than Sergei Rachmaninoff, Russian pianist, who has the musical world at his heels just now. Members of the cabinet, the Supreme Court and the diplomatic set, with their wives and others to the number of 400, tried to forget for the moment the recent disorders that have been shrouding the atmosphere of the capital since the Senate investigators got going.

So beautiful, indeed, was the music, that some of them were almost able to believe again that the world does contain beauty and truth and care-free happiness.

Additional causes for congratulation, was the fact that the recital, with tea and cakes thrown in was absolutely without cost.

The hostess who heard Rachmaninoff's concert elsewhere had to dig up from $4.40 each.

Family dignity is nowhere held more dear than in staid old Massachusetts, "the home of the bean and the cod," where the Puritan ancestors of Calvin Coolidge and Burton K. Wheeler first made their abode.

So it was altogether in keeping with tradition and propriety that the relatives of Senator Wheeler, following his recent attacks on the administration of his former fellow statesman, should hold a family conference to decide what was to be done about it.

Young Wheeler, it appeared, since

A notable feature, I may add is that no favorite son desires to see any other favorite son in the race; all of them want Coolidge.

"There are numerous reasons why Coolidge will be elected in November. The American people admire his manner of handling public matters. They appreciate his candor, his honesty, his positiveness, his clear-thinking and the deliberation he has shown in matters that affect the public good. His action the other day in raising the tariff on wheat so that the wheat growers of the country who are in dire straits might secure needed relief was characteristic of the man. It showed that his method of thinking was direct and logical. A situation confronted him, he met it as usual with genuine courage. He realized something must be done and he did it. The people of the United States admire honesty and courage."

"Down in my country, President Coolidge will not only receive the support of those in the city who desire a continuance of prosperous conditions, but will also be warmly supported by those who wrest their livelihood from the soil, because our farmers realize that here is a man who as a boy worked as a farmer's boy. He knows the problems of the farmers and he sympathizes with them. President Coolidge enjoys the confidence of the people of the country. They know he is at the White House working, working honest and sincere; they know he is for the interests of the people. Coolidge is a logical, forceful speaker, the result of close and intelligent study of every subject he discusses.

"It is rather interesting to note that some of the leading Democratic papers of the country are strongly in favor of the Mellon bill as a method to reduce taxation. This attitude on their part has no doubt been brought about by the clear and logical presentation of the case by the President and Secretary Mellon.

"I have heard many Democrats signify their intention of voting for Coolidge and they are men who have never leaving Massachusetts and getting him elected senator from Montana, had absorbed a lot of "wild" ideas. He was living these in the Senate, I dread to say.

So a letter was drafted, beseeching, imploring, begging Senator Wheeler to watch his step. He mustn't say anything "radical." He mustn't bring shame on the family name, the good old name of Wheeler, so well and favorably known for generations in the old Bay State.

Wheeler read the letter. Then he grinned and huzzed for his stenographer.

"Dear family," he dictated, or something like that. We only pretend to give a paraphrase of what he wrote.

"I was elected to the United States Senate to represent the people of Montana, not my family in Massachusetts. If I had stayed in Massachusetts and depended on my family to elect me to the Senate I never would have got here. Don't worry about me. I'll worry along somehow."

Mary Roberts Rinehart, novelist and playwright, has an uncanny knack for picking the subjects and the plots for best sellers and record-breaking plays. Rumor says, not without apparent foundation, that Mary thinks the day is here for a great political novel dealing with inside events in Washington. Whether it has any significance in this connection, I do not say but Mrs. Rinehart has been an interested listener at more than one session of the Teapot Dome investigation.

The testimony there has held enough color and drama to grip even a confirmed fictionist.

Also, Mrs. Rinehart has aided no little to the enjoyment of the spectators at the hearings, or entry is always the signal for a buzz of excited whispering.

noted for a Republican before. They are going to vote for him because they feel the country is safe in his hands."

RESUME OIL WELL DRILLING AT CANADA PEAK MONDAY

The Canada Peak Oil Company resumed drilling yesterday at its oil well on Lick Fork after a lay off since early in February due to the stormy weather and the illness of the drilling contractor, Charles W. Ross, of Winchester.

S. V. Riggs, and family arrived here Friday from Oklahoma to make their home here during the oil well drilling. Mr. Riggs will have charge of the drilling for Mr. Ross during his absence. Mr. Riggs was jubilant over the fine showing of oil in the well, and as soon as the hole can be straightened out through the water channel at the bottom of the hole and the water eased off it can be determined how much oil is in this oil sand, the wages, sand of the Barboursville oil field.
